TERMINATION OF PARENTAL RIGHTS

FAMILY COURT OF THE STATE OF DELAWARE

https://courts.delaware.gov/family

What is the Definition of Termination of Parental Rights?

The intent of Termination of Parental Rights ("TPR") is to legally and permanently terminate the relationship between a child and his or her parent(s). The law about TPR is found within Chapter 11 of Title 13 of the Delaware Code.

What Happens After Parental Rights are Terminated?

After the Court issues a TPR Order, parental rights are usually then transferred to another person through an Adoption Order. The prospective adoptive parent must file a Petition for Adoption. Once an Adoption Order is issued, the adoptive parent then becomes the permanent legal parent of the child and will have all of the rights, duties, privileges and obligations recognized by the law between parents and their children. The law about adoption is found within Chapter 9 of Title 13 of the Delaware Code.

Because parental rights are transferred to another person through an Adoption Order, a Petition for Adoption must be filed at the same time as a Petition for Termination of Parental Rights, unless the petition is filed under Section 1103(b) of Title 13, or is filed by the Department of Services for Children, Youth, and Their Families ("DSCYF") or a licensed agency.

What is the Effect of Losing One's Parental Rights?

Terminating a person's parental rights is an important decision with significant consequences. Once parental rights are terminated, the individual will no longer be a legal parent to the child. This means that all of the individual's rights and obligations to the child are extinguished (with the exception of outstanding child support arrearages). Once parental rights are terminated, other individuals may adopt the child and become the child's legal parent. The new legal parents will have all of the rights and obligations that the natural parent once had.

What is the Effect of Losing One's Parental Rights on Inheritance?

Both the individual whose parental rights were terminated and that individual's relatives lose all rights of inheritance from the child. Accordingly, the child will no longer have rights of inheritance from the individual whose rights were terminated or from that individual's relatives. If the individual whose parental rights were terminated still wants the child to inherit from him or her, then he or she must include the child in his or her will.

Who Can Ask the Family Court for a TPR (i.e. who can Petition for TPR)?

A Petition for TPR may be filed in the State of Delaware by any of the following:

- 1) A parent or presumed father of a child;
- 2) A relative (as defined by 10 Del. C. § 901) of a child;
- 3) DSCYF;
- Any agency granted a license by DSCYF to place children for adoption (a "licensed agency"); or

5) A guardian or permanent guardian of the child.

One parent does not usually file to terminate his or her rights only. It is highly unlikely that the Court would terminate one parent's rights if there was not a prospective adoptive parent in place. This is true even if one parent is being denied visitation and wishes to terminate his or her rights to cease child support payments.

Who can seek to adopt (i.e., who can petition the Court for adoption)?

A Petition for Adoption may be filed in the State of Delaware IF you are:

- Over 21 years old; AND
- A Delaware resident or a person with whom a child has been placed for adoption under Section 904 of Title 13; AND
 - An unmarried person; OR
 - A divorced or legally separated person petitioning individually; OR
 - A married couple jointly seeking to adopt who are NOT legally separated or living apart from each other; OR
 - A non-married couple petitioning jointly, provided that they are cohabiting.

What does "cohabiting" mean?

Cohabiting means that a person regularly resides with an adult of the same or opposite sex, and they hold themselves out as a couple.

What is the Termination of Parental Rights Process?

- 1) The Petitioner files a Petition to Terminate Parental rights.
- 2) The Respondent has 20 days in which to file an Answer to that Petition.
- 3) A social study and report must be completed (Please see below for more information).
- 4) A Judge will hold a hearing, taking into consideration whether the parents agree to the termination.
- 5) The Judge will issue an order either granting or denying the Termination of Parental Rights.

What are the Grounds for Termination of Parental Rights?

When alleging facts in a Petition for Termination of Parental Rights, the Petitioner must indicate at least one Ground for Termination of Parental Rights for each child. The grounds can be found on the last three pages of the Petition for Termination of Parental Rights (Form 112) or in Chapter 11 of Title 13 of the Delaware Code.

What is a Social Report?

A Social Report provides detailed information about the parents, Petitioner, and the child, which will help the Court determine whether parental rights should be terminated. A worker from a child placement agency will talk to all of the people involved with the case including the Petitioner, the child's parents, and the child. The worker will then write a report and submit it to the Court. The report will include the following:

- Information regarding the child and the child's background;
- The history of the child's custody, visitation and living arrangements;
- Information regarding the parents;
- Information regarding the petitioner(s);
- Information regarding the efforts at reunification with the parents if the petition is filed under Section 1103(a)(5) of Title 13;
- Information regarding the allegations of dependency and neglect if the petition is filed under Section 1103(a)(6) of Title 13;
- The plan for the child if the petition is granted;
- A statement that the person preparing the report or the petitioner has advised each known birth parent of the birth parent's rights to file a written notarized statement with the Office of Vital Statistics denying the release of identifying information under Section 923(b) of Title 13.

A Social Report can be very expensive. It is Petitioner's duty to pay for the study. Please contact a child placement agency for costs.

Where can I find a Child Placement Agency?

A list of agencies is provided on the Family Court Website at this link: https://courts.delaware.gov/Forms/Download.aspx?id=105998.

What if I do not know where the Respondent is currently living?

If the location of either or both Respondents is unknown, the Court will publish AT PETITIONER'S EXPENSE, a legal notice of the petition in 1 or more approved newspapers for 3 consecutive weeks in the county and state where either or both Respondent's last known address was located. Please note that this process can be very expensive.

How can I file my petition and related paperwork?
